Tamalada

By: Emily Allison

On Friday from 6-8pm was the Tamalada. It was very fun for students and teachers. There were many different things at the Tamalada, such as different performances on stage, one of the performances on the stage was Aerial. Aerial is where you hang from a silky piece of fabric and do tricks. One of the performers was Julia, she did a great job!

In my opinion aerial looks very dangerous because they are hanging high up from a silky piece of fabric and if they make a wrong move they could fall and hurt themselves badly. Another thing that happened at the Tamalada is at the end all the students were dancing on stage to music, which was not planned but was very fun.

In conclusion the Tamalada was very fun and there were many different activities for adults and young children.

Clowns in Santa Cruz?

By: Sydney Weaver

Everyone has heard about these "clowns," and everyone wants to know, why is this happening, why are people doing this, and how long is this gonna last? Lots of people have heard different things or "rumors," I have heard lots of different stories from my friends and from people around the school. I have heard that all these "clowns" are college students trying to have some fun, but there was a recent video of a bunch of college students running in the streets trying to find some clowns and "kill them."

I have had some friends who have seen some "clowns," at Harvey West Park and Santa Cruz High School. I personally have not seen one yet and wonder if I ever will. In conclusion I have heard a lot about clowns, but I still don't know about them, are clowns a threat to us, are there really clowns in Santa Cruz, and how do we know what clowns are good or bad?

School Soccer Team

By: Ronald Lainez

In school soccer there are kids that like to play soccer but they can't join the team. The kid who wants to play at a school soccer team sometimes can't because they have to do a lot of papers or they have to do a doctor checkup to play soccer.

School soccer team is cool to be in but sometimes kids might not make it into the team because they didn't fill out the papers, or they didn't do the doctor note, or they couldn't make it to the team. There is also a cost to play soccer because you need to pay for the doctor to check you, and to buy the soccer shoes and the stuff to play soccer.

Clowns

By: Aydan Scott

This year, 2016, a strange thing happened and spread across the United States, Clowns.

In the source, The guardian states, "The first person to spot a clown, the patient zero in the current epidemic of threatening clowns sightings spreading across the US, was a little boy at a low-income apartment complex in Greenville, South Carolina."

When the boy saw the clown he was frightened, he ran to his mother, Donna Arnold, and explained what he saw. He saw more about the president debate than you think. Especially Donald Trump's points about muslim kids and immigrants.

Many studies show from schools that kids are scared. If he is elected, one teacher says, "There is a boy from Mexico, who is a citizen, who is terrified that the country will deport him if Trump wins." There are "Latino students who carry their birth certificates and Social Security cards to school because they are afraid they will be deported." says a high school teacher.

How do you celebrate Halloween?

Maya Nunes "I hide in the bushes and jump out at little kids"

Ms. Brooks "I like to decorate my spaces, and I get the good candy so that I can enjoy it myself. I also go trick-or-treating with my family."

Owen Levy "I trick or treat"

Kyle Nee "I go trick-or-treating with friends".

Clowns Continued:

"two clowns in the woods, both brightly dressed and made up. One with a red fright wig and the other with a black star painted on his face. They whispered something to the boy."

After that the clowns spread. An article, The USA Today said, "Recently, a Philadelphia school district reported that police were investigating threats made by creepy clowns on social media. Likewise, the Spring Independent School District in Texas issued a security statement due to new clown threat hoaxes made online."

Take A Hike! 7th Grade Pogonip to UCSC Field Trip

By: Jesus Tovar-Guerrero

Friday October 21st B40 7th Graders took a hike. I J.T, liked the hike. I thought it was easy and a lot of fun. I liked being out of school and in the woods. There were lots of fun things on this trip, like when they dropped pumpkins off a bridge. My favorite part of the trip was when Mr.Dennis showed me a Banana Slug and I poked it with a stick. It made me think of Bananas in Pajamas.
